SAY!

(By CHARLES J. ARNOLD)

I told you so. Ha, Ha!!

Old Long Shot Moffett, the pride of Cloverdale, came through with that forward pass that clinched the game for Rotary.

And don't get any fool notion that that was just a chance one. Ol' Long Shot always did maintain that when better shots were made he would make 'em.

What I'm talking about is the Rotary-Kiwanis basketball game last night. The Rotarians won by the wide margin of one point. The pride of Cloverdale was the outstanding player; John Cannon the outstanding yell leader—and he was just too cute for anything; and E. R. Bartley was the outstanding substitute.

Receipts which will amount to several thousand dollars will go toward buying Charity for those who are on the approved lists.

All in all the event was a big success and a good time was had by all.

Or was it "Stretch" Barnaby who won the game for old "Serve yourself first" with a home run in the ninth inning with the bases full?

I was so amused watching John Cannon and Victor Raphael cut up, that I sorta lost track of the actual contest, but I have heard reports giving each Moffett and Barnaby credit for winning the game. Anyhow, I'm right on it being the Rotarians who won.

Milt Brown is given credit for losing the game for the Kiwanians by running out of chatter early in the third quarter. Milt, who usually peeks a word of word wallop, weakened toward the end and allowed John Cannon and Victor Raphael to steal his thunder.

Some of the folks said "Moff" was not so graceful but that he was a bear for punishment. Now I'm not just clear on what they meant so I'll leave it to your imagination.

John Cannon had to be down town before 7 o'clock this morning in order to get his cheer leader's uniform back into stock before opening up time.

I may be wrong, but really I admire the efforts of the boys in securing such attractive uniforms.

Ote Gardner, step ladders and all, was right on the job. Ote proved himself right smart of a acrobat.

A good time was had by all.

And victory rests on the broad shoulders of Rotary.

STATE CHILD HEALTH MEET IS PLANNED

GATHERING TO BE HELD IN CAPITAL CITY JANUARY 15, 16 AND 17—IS FIRST SESSION OF ITS KIND

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 30.—In a statement issued today Governor Harry G. Leslie urged the mothers, teachers, welfare and social workers, educators, legislators, and representatives from social, civic, medical, dental and other organizations, to attend the State Child Health and Welfare Conference to be held here January 15, 16 and 17.

"It is a duty not only for these folks, but for the parent of every child, the future citizens and guardians of the destinies of our state, to know the results of years of research work and the most modern thought on the care of children from their earliest years until manhood," Governor Leslie said.

"This conference, the first state conference of its kind, is an aftermath of President Hoover's White House conference on child health and protection and will give to the people of Indiana a cross-section of the expert thought concerning the welfare of children and should stimulate every effort to give to the children of Indiana their fullest measure of opportunity and development.

"This conference will touch the mother, father, teacher, nurse and all those who touch the everyday life of the child. This conference is for the people of Indiana and its success will depend upon how far our people will go in co-operation and responsiveness in these matters which affect the daily lives of our children.

"The men and women on the three-day program are leaders in child health and welfare work, and for the people of the children in every home I urge widespread attendance at every session of this all-important conference."

Civic leaders of Putnam county will attend the state-wide conference on emergency relief which will be held Tuesday, Jan. 6, at Indianapolis, Indiana and Purdue universities are in charge of the conference.

Charles Barnaby, Greencastle, Putnam county chairman of the unemployment commission; Mrs. John H. Alice, president of the Indiana Federation of Art Clubs; and President G. Bromley Oxnam, DePauw university, are to attend the conference as representatives of Putnam county.

The conference has been planned as an aid to local communities throughout Indiana in the administering of funds which have been raised for relief purposes. A group of 215 representative citizens have been invited to attend. Governor Leslie has pointed out that in many of the smaller cities, towns and counties of the state no organization exists for relief to which those desirous of helping can turn.

"Now organization must be effected to prevent waste of charitable funds," he said, "to direct relief to the needy in such a way as not to undermine character, and to administer the funds efficiently."

Prominent social service workers of Indiana have accepted invitations to take part in the program for the conference which will be held in the senate chamber of the state house. The speakers will be Governor Leslie; President William L. Bryan, Indiana university; President Edward C. Elliott, Purdue university; John A. Brown, secretary of the Indiana board of state charities; David C. Liggett, executive secretary of the Indianapolis community fund; Eugene C. Foster, director of the Indianapolis foundation; Prof. O. CREWLESS BOAT USED
BY GERMANS IN WAR

That the Germans used in the world war an engine of destruction off the Belgian coast about which practically nothing has been revealed was the assertion of Rear Admiral G. R. Blount of the British navy in an address in opening a Missions to Seamen exhibition in Leeds, England, recently. This was an electrically driven crewless launch controlled from the shore, capable of high speed and quick turning and carrying 500 pounds of gun cotton in its bow. It was designed to ram its prey. It took very skillful seamanship to dodge the craft, which could port, starboard or run with its helm amidships and took a lot of shaking off. Warships were able to sink it with gunfire once its nature was recognized but merchant ships were at its mercy.

WOMAN KILLS HERSELF AND TWO CHILDREN

CAPITAL CITY WOMAN TAKES LIFE OF SELF AND BABIES BE-CAUSE SHE COULD NOT GO TO CALIFORNIA HUSBAND SAYS

Mrs. Ruth Nicholas, age 32 years, 2935 Central Avenue, Indianapolis killed her two small children, then herself yesterday in her home because her husband was unable for them to go to California.

The children were Richard Allen Nicholas, 2 years old, and Virginia Nicholas, 5 years old.

The boy had been drowned and the girl was strangled with a towel.

Mrs. Nicholas shot herself through the head with an army revolver.

The husband and father, Royal A. Nicholas, an attorney, found the bodies when he returned from his office in the Lemcke building at 5:30 o'clock last night.

The body of the boy was in his crib in a rear bedroom and the bed clothes were saturated with water from the tub in a nearby bathroom, where he was drowned. The girl was undressed and a large Turkish towel was still about her neck when police arrived.

Mrs. Nicholas, fully clothed, was found in her bedroom across the hall, with the bed covers pulled over her head to deaden the noise of the shot. A .38 caliber army type revolver was clutched in her hand. The bullet had entered one side of her head and came through the other side.

Mrs. Nicholas said that his wife had been moody for the last two days, having asserted that she wanted to return to California, where her mother, two sisters and a brother live. He said they had lived there one year, returning to Indianapolis in 1927, then their domestic life had been happy and that Mrs. Nicholas prepared his breakfast as usual yesterday morning. They had been married eight years.

Mrs. Harmon Gladish, who lives at 2937 Central avenue, in the upper half of the duplex, said that she had not seen Mrs. Nicholas yesterday and had not heard the sound of a shot.

Police could not estimate the time of the tragedy. The body of the boy still was slightly warm when they arrived, but those of the mother and daughter were cold. Coroner Charles H. Keever pronounced the verdict of murder and suicide.

Sgt. Eldridge and a police emergency squad investigated.

Surviving Mrs. Nicholas in addition to the husband are the mother, Mrs. Cora Doyle, two sisters, Mrs. Laura Herring and Mrs. Cecelia Simpson and a brother, Athol Doyle, all of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Nicholas said his wife insisted that they go to California several days ago, and that she told her to wait until spring and then they would go if they could afford it. He said she had seemed to be happier than usual during early part of the holiday season but seemed somewhat moody Saturday and Sunday.

RESCUE WORKER OVERCOME

United States Bureau of Mine Men,
Police and Firemen Worked For Hours Attempting to Retrieve Boys

PITTSBURGH, December 30.—A shaggy dog, whose nervous barking and whining could not be stilled, led a man into an abandoned mine in the south hills last night and there five youths were found, victims of gas.

Today, white crepe symbols replaced holly wreaths at the homes of Steve Polka, age sixteen; Andrew Novak, age sixteen; John Vogick, age fourteen; Walter Kubala, age fifteen; and Joseph Kaselak, age nineteen.

The youths went into the mine to gather coal for their families. Several of them carried candles. About three-quarters of a mile in they began to drop.

The dog, constant companion of the Vogick youth, returned home alone. When it could not be quieted, the youth's father followed the dog to the pit.

United States bureau of mines men, police and firemen worked for hours in an effort to revive the youths. One was dead when he was brought from the mine. The others died in a hospital.

Paul Klein, battalion chief, was overcome while trying to save the youths. He is recovering in a hospital.

INABILITY TO OBTAIN JURY STALLS TRIAL

OF ALLEGED LYNCHER AT MAR-ION—STATE RECEIVES PERMIS-SION TO CALL A SPECIAL VENUE
OF TWENTY-FIVE MEN

MARION, Ind., December 30.—Temporarily stalled in its attempt to obtain a jury to hear the trial against Robert Beshire, age forty-five, alleged lyncher, the state today had received permission to call a special venire of twenty-five men. This is in addition to a special venire of fifty called last week.

One prospective jurymen after another was disqualified Monday because of a preconceived opinion, prejudice and failure to give a fair and impartial trial. When court adjourned forty-five prospective jurors have been called and none definitely passed by either state or defense. There were eight men in the jury box, but neither side had used all its peremptory challenges.

The chief question asked the venire men by E. H. Graves, defense attorney, was whether the men would be prejudiced by the fact that Beshire is not a naturalized citizen or whether they would be influenced because the case was being prosecuted by two deputies of the attorney-general's office.

State attorneys built the principal part of their questioning around the fact that Claude Deeter was killed by two colored youths. They asked each venireman whether he would be influenced by this fact or that the men who were lynched were colored.

ESCORT DENIES CAUSING DEATH OF GARY GIRL

CROWN POINT, Ind., Dec. 30.—In his version of the tragic Gary girl party, which ended in the death of Arlene Draves, 17-year-old high school graduate, Virgil Kirkland, her escort, insisted Monday night that he was innocent of causing her death. The 23-year-old youth is awaiting trial with four companions on a charge of first degree murder. The state charged that on the night of November 30, he and his friends criminally attacked and beat the girl. The trial is expected to be called early in January.

"I should have been lynched," Kirkland said, with tears in his eyes, "if I were guilty of all that has been said against me."

"But I didn't kill Arlene. I didn't force her to do a thing against her will. I didn't beat her on the head with a golf club as they charged either."

"We were all having a good time at the party, just like at any other of a dozen parties I've been to. Arlene and I were out on the porch with Dick Sturridge, one of those at the party and his wife."

"Mrs. Sturridge got sick and had to go inside. Arlene wasn't feeling very good either, although she had only taken a few drinks of wine."

"Just as the Sturridges left, Arlene slid out of her chair and fell on the floor. This made a big noise. As I picked her up Sturridge ran back to see what happened. He helped sit her in a chair and then went to his wife."

"I figured that Arlene was feeling bad and that a little air would do her some good, so I took her out to my car. She settled back and seemed to go to sleep. It was then that the others went to see her."

"Arlene and I had been intimate earlier on the front porch. I didn't force her, and if she hadn't bumped her head there wouldn't have been any trouble."

Kirkland said the party began to break up about 1 a. m. and that he with his companions and the Sturridges left in the same car. After the Sturridges got out, he said, he drove about a little to see if Arlene would "come to."

"When she didn't get better Kirkland added, 'we went to a doctor, and an there he told she was dead."

"I nearly fainted, but I drove to her father's and told him. I wouldn't have done that if I had been guilty of the things they claim I am, would I?"

DRIVEN INTO OPEN

MUNCIE, Ind., Dec. 30.—Lee Fletcher Howell, 33, son of a wealthy Muncie florist is in jail today after tear gas bombs were used to dislodge him from the family home Monday night when he threatened to kill his mother with a butcher knife.

Deputy Sheriff Morris Leech was wounded slightly when Howell fired a shotgun at him. One shot struck Leech in the face.

According to officers, Howell was intoxicated when he returned home and threatened his mother with the knife.

When the officers arrived they were warned by Howell's father not to enter the house. Sheriff Puckett broke through the door and fired a tear gas bomb and Howell fired the shotgun at the sheriff. The gas fumes finally dislodged Howell and he surrendered.

CLERK JOSHED ABOUT PROSPERITY GETS IT

CHICAGO, December 30.—"Cheer up," William A. Rowley's friends used to tell him as he pored over figures representing other persons' money as a clerk at the City Hall. "Prosperity is just around the corner."

"Oh, well, anything can happen," invariably would be his reply. But he labored for more than twenty years before retiring from his clerkship and nothing much happened until yesterday, when word was received that an aunt had left him property worth $631,480.

LOSES LEG IN ACCIDENT

WARSAW, Ind., Dec. 29.—Falling from a fast Nickel Plate freight train near Burkett, twelve miles south of here, Andrew McCarty, age thirty-three, stealing a ride, en route from Chicago to Syracuse, N. Y., lay helpless at the side of the track for more than five hours and today was found by Dale Miller and Charles McSherry, farmers, living nearby. His left leg had been cut off below the knee and he was weak from loss of blood and exposure.

He said that after the accident he fell down a seven-foot embankment but managed to crawl back to the right-of-way, where he was found. He is now in a Warsaw hospital, where physicians have little hope for his recovery.

ARREST OF SLAYER OF TEACHERS NEAR

BLACKWELL, Okla., Dec. 29.—Moving secretly, officers believed the slayer of two Blackwell school teacher sisters was not far from their grasp tonight.

County Attorney Bruce Potter announced officers had in their possession a clew that would lead "to the arrest and positive identification" of the man who shot Jessie and Zezula Griffith to death and tossed their bodies from their motor car on a cross-state highway near Tonkawa, Okla., early Sunday.

Potter said the only motive for the slayings apparently was mistreatment of the younger sister, Jessie, 24 years old. Two physicians confirmed the reports the younger sister had been repeatedly attacked.

Lyman Constant, former inmate of an asylum for the insane who was arrested at Enid last night in connection with the case, was released today. Officers said he knew nothing of the crime beyond what he had heard while hitchhiking along the road.

Investigators attached some importance to the recollection of friends of Jessie Griffith at Norman, Okla., that she had recently refused to venture out at night unaccompanied and had seemed apprehensive.

SLAIN FROM AMBUSH

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Dec. 30.—John Brown, veteran peace officer, was found shot to death here last night, one hand clutching a pistol which he did not have a chance to use against an assailant who surprised him in a garage at the rear of his home.

Brown, a former constable apparently had stepped from his automobile to meet three shots in quick succession. The body was found by Allen Bartman, age nineteen, who lived above the garage.

Brown had been connected with law enforcement activities in northwest Missouri more than twenty years.

PRISON OUTBREAK IS BASIS FOR SESSION

Governor Harry G. Leslie, Walter H. Daly, warden at the Indiana State Prison, and Arthur L. Denniston, prison board member, were to confer Tuesday regarding circumstances surrounding the attempted jail break early Monday at the prison.

The warden was to make a report to the Governor, and it was regarded likely that they will discuss possible recommendations to be made by the Governor regarding plans to relieve the overcrowded condition at the prison. This overcrowded condition was blamed Monday by the Governor for the attempted break by twelve prisoners at the institution.

I. U. RESEARCHER ADVOCATES PSYCHOANALYSIS IN DIVORCE

CLEVELAND, Dec. 30.—R. Clyde White, of the bureau of social research, Indiana university, finds a relationship between divorce and insanity. "The peculiar continuous rise in both the insanity rate and the divorce rate leads to the reasonable presumption that there is a correlation between the two," he informed the American Sociology Society, in session here. He advocated a study of the psychiatric background in divorce cases.

friend a number of times. But this time Green forgot to deposit the money and after a few swigs of white mule bought a bus ticket for the west and started for California.

About a week ago Green, broke, foot-sore and hungry and tired of bumbling about the country, gave him self up to the sheriff at Tucson, Arizona, and asked to be sent back to Brazil where he said he was wanted for larceny. The Arizona sheriff telegraphed Sheriff Tiffie, who wired back to the Tucson official that there was no funds available to pay the expense of sending after Green and advised the official to turn his prisoner loose and start him out for Brazil.

Sheriff Tiffie did not expect to see Green, at least for some time in the future when he might be apprehended, and was astonished last night when the door of his office opened and the absconder limped in.

He will be arraigned in the Circuit court on a charge of grand larceny.

AND THE NEW MODE

By FRIEDA C. STOLL

Selection is becoming a more and more important factor in the purchasing of clothing for the family. Regardless of whether made at home or bought ready made, fundamental principles of selection must be observed—such as appropriate design, becoming color and material to the person and suitable to the use of the garment. Quality or workmanship, and of material in relation to price are likewise important points to consider.

Statistics show that women purchase 98 percent of all textiles and in men's furnishings they select or assist with the selection of about 75 percent of this merchandise. With such a variety of materials as are found in the markets at the present time—are the home makers prepared to make a wise selection of northernmost make a wise selection for the members of their household? Since women have a part in the selection of over 75 percent of men's apparel, they need to feel the importance of making intelligent selections for the men and boys in the family. Few men understand how to select materials, so must depend on the feminine members of the family or on the word of the clerk. Of course, there is the case of one man in a thousand who uses a microscope to select the material for his suits. It is true that quality and price are important factors to be considered, yet not the only points worthy of consideration. The ensemble, the becomingness of color, color harmony, texture of materials and the cut of the garment must not be omitted.

The suit is the basis of the wardrobe for the masculine members of the family. The texture, color harmony, and design must not only be suitable for use but also express the personality of the wearer. Gay tweeds, conspicuous stripes and checks or plaids of the passing note do not belong to the reserved, dignified man. Men need to keep in mind the fact that heavy fabrics, coarse weaves, as well as conspicuous designs tend to increase the bulk, while the same fabric will likewise emphasize the thinness of the slender man. Prominent stripes and plaids even though there may be a pronounced vertical line direction, do not give the effect of height often coveted by the short type. For business or street wear the conservative designs are a better selection. Gaudy material tends to bespeak the character of the person and would fail to inspire dignity and confidence in the business man. At the present time it is generally conceded that clothing for the men of the family is selected not on the basis of durability alone but also from the stand point of appropriate materials and designs.

As Henry Ward Beecher has said, "Clothes do not make the man but they make him look a lot better after he is made."

ITEMS CUT FROM RELIEF BILL

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Before passing the Emergency Unemployment Relief bill giving President Hoover $110,000,000 of the $150,000,000 he asked for in a lump sum, to be expended by himself and his Cabinet, the House, on the initiative of Representative Byrns (Tenn.), ranking Democrat on the Appropriations Committee, required Mr. Hoover to submit a list of projects upon which the money was to be spent. A long list prepared by the Budget Bureau was forwarded, which the Appropriations Committee reduced to five projects: Federal Highway System, $80,000,000; Rivers and Harbors, $22,500,000; Flood Control on the Mississippi River, $3,000,000; Improvement of National Forests, $3,000,000; Roads and Trails in National Parks, $1,500,000.

Debate on the bill revealed some of the items which had been cut out of the President's list, as follows: Ammunition, $5,500,000, to be added to the $650,000,000 worth already on hand.

To kill bugs in the National forests, $500,000.
Purchase of passenger-carrying autos and motor trucks for Army officers, $2,000,000.
Office Secretary of Agriculture, $83,840.

Animal industry, $57,995.
Biological survey, $489,505.
Dairy industry, $114,000.
Plant quarantine and control, $35,000.

Weather Bureau, $5,000.
Seacoast defenses, purchases of searchlights, submarine mines and construction of fire-control stations.

These items, the Committee decided, had nothing to do with unemployment relief.

Representative Byrns drew from the budget director the statement that he did not begin to call on department heads to see how much money they could use in emergency unemployment until about November 1, although the matter had been discussed last spring.

"I think the severest indictments against the administration in this unemployment situation," said Representative Byrns, "are the facts I have just stated—the delay in coming to Congress and asking even for this modicum of relief which I assert we are forced to believe was due to political considerations."

The Senate added $5,000,000 to the bill and fixed the terms of employment, taking these powers away from the President.

Tolable David
by JOSEPH HERGESHEIMER

WHAT HAS HAPPENED UP TO NOW?

(The Kinemon family got along very well until three raffish relatives of their good friends and neighbors—the Hatburns—came along. Like Hatburn and his trading, worthless sons tyrannized everybody, including Amos Hatburn and his daughter, Esther, with whom "Tolable" David Kinemon was in love. The younger son of Luke was called Buzzard, a cruel half-wit, who feared only his brother Luke, a degenerate, brutal bully. Alan Kinemon, who drove the stage, and Luke, got into an argument over young David's dog.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Installment Three

Chapter Five

Gathering up all that was left of the blood-streaked "Happy," Alan turned to his sympathetic passengers, who were sickened and outraged at the brutal sight which they had just witnessed. Turning his back upon the Hatburn place, he started for the driver's seat.

Still grumbling, and angered by the hostile attitude of the two passengers, Luke grasped a jagged rock lying in the roadway and hurled it full force at the retreating figure of his newest enemy, Alan Kinemon.

The boy went down in a crazy heap, still clutching the dog—rolled over and lay still and white on his face in the dust.

David: How do you like being one of us Kinemons? Oh, honey Esther.

"My Gawd, he's kilt, like as not," ejaculated the first passenger, leaping out into the road beside the injured youth. Both of his riders saw that Alan was breathing fitfully, as if in great pain.

"Well, have the law on ye, mister!" shrieked the second passenger, helping the other man lift Alan very tenderly into the conveyance.

Chapter Six

They drove off in a cloud of dust. Alan was still unconscious when David, giving the alarm to the terrified family, helped to carry the groaning figure into the house.

"Is he goin' ter die, doctor?" quavered Maw Kinemon, who was clutching her husband's shoulder as they both faced the kindly old physician.

"Is he right bad off?" supplemented Hunter Kinemon, the father, in an even tone of voice. He stood there a tower of a man, controlling himself beyond human naturalness, his face stony—never betraying the emotion that was agonizing his weak heart.

"He ain't gonna die, but he's never gonna walk again," confessed their friend. "The blow broke his spine."

The squeaking rocker where Rose sat wide-eyed and stunned beside her husband's bed grated upon Maw Kinemon's hysterical reverie, and she walked slowly—slowly toward the door of the sick room, closing it behind her with a silence that was pregnant with drama and misery.

Tolable David conferred with the doctor outside, and crept back into the room, tears in his eyes, inwardly vowing speedy vengeance. Brushing the hot salt drops from his brimming eyes, he noticed his father stride purposefully across the rude room—reach up across the mantelpiece where the long, old rifle had long since fallen into the category of an unused ornament. He rose in fevered apprehension when Paw broke the terrifying silence with the click-click of shells being slipped home into the cartridge breech.

"Maw," called the eldest Kinemon—"Maw, I'm a-goin' out fer a spell!" The good woman slipped back into the room, taking in the situation at a glance.

"You don't look well, Hunter," she sobbed. "It's your heart again? Better let the sheriff handle this."

"Maw Kinemon," he returned sternerly, "you know the law out here! Our son has been done wrong—it's up to me to square things up. . . I'm a-goin'."

"And he with you, Hunter," she kissed him. "And I'll be waitin' for you to come back."

"That's right, Maw," agreed the old mountaineer heartily. "And now go back to Rose and Alan. They'll be needin' you."

Luxury Loving Ladies in Drama of Marriage

The story told in "Extravagance," showing today and Wednesday, matinee and night at the Voncastle, is of a beautiful young girl who had never been denied anything except a sable coat. All her life her widowed mother had given her everything—even though she saw her money dwindling to nothing. Beauty nature had been most lavish in giving her. She was the darling of her crowd and had been engaged more times than she could bother to remember.

Then she met Fred Garlan and loved him enough to marry him. Her trousseau was everything that a luxury loving girl could want—except she had to be satisfied with a coat of ermine instead of the sable she craved.

Alice asks her husband for a sable coat, but he tells her women with sables do not get them from their husbands unless they are millionaires. But Alice gets her sables!

Hardwood Hits

We are going to turn most of the column over to the Sports Writer of the Brazil Times, who has several comments to make on the Greencastle, Central of Fort Wayne basketball night.

BY THE WAY, BRAZIL IS THE NEXT OPPONENT OF THE TIGER CUBS.

Here's what the Brazil writer says:

Coach Harold Wheeler and the Brazil basketball squad watched the Greencastle Tiger Cubs in their game with Central of Fort Wayne Saturday night.

day night and they looked mighty good.

Coach Bausman's Tiger Cubs served notice of warning to Coach "Babe" Wheeler and his crew of basketballers by defeating Central of Ft. Wayne, 23 to 17 in a thrilling battle at Greencastle Saturday night.

A trio of colored lads, Nash, Croninger, and Bugg demonstrated how the fast offense should be played and had they been able to locate the hoop Greencastle would have suffered defeat.

Bugg, dusky back guard of the Central outfit is the same Bugg that performed on the cinder track at Central last year and was doped to upset Brazil's speed merchant, Ivan Fuqua, but could not deliver.

Greencastle employed delayed offensive tactics with H. Stone as the high scorer. This boy counted three times from afield and as many from the charity line for a total of 9 points. It was Stone's foul tosses that gave the Cubs a narrow margin in the final minutes of play and spurred his team mates to a 6 point victory.

Although Greencastle has a small team, the lack of height is somewhat compensated with McNally, a six foot four inch at the pivot position. Hurst got into the game for Greencastle near the end of the first half and scored six points. Hurst has filled the position vacated by Gross, who is now entered at Central Normal. Gross' brother started at one of the guard jobs but gave way to Hurst.

There are some points in the above on which we disagree with the Brazil pencil pusher. We really feel that the colored boys from Central didn't get through the Greencastle defense often enough to win the game if their basket shooting had been better.

We are willing to admit, however, that the Fort Wayne boys played the fast offense as it should be played.

They are the only team which has done that on the Greencastle floor this year.

IT'S FEEDING THAT MAKES A FOOTBALL TEAM "FIGHT"

EDITOR'S NOTE

In his eleven years at Notre Dame University, prior to 1920, Knute Rockne has turned out four national championship teams and has seen 101 victories chalked up by the eleven under his guidance. Naturally, these men have been most carefully conditioned—for no sport is more exacting in its demands upon stamina than is the particular brand of football played by Coach Rockne's "Fighting Irish". We feel that Mr. Rockne's views on correct eating may be copied profitably by all who must face the struggle of modern life—and surely no man is better able to speak authoritatively on this matter of outstanding importance.

EDITOR.

By Knute Rockne

Too much emphasis cannot be placed upon the importance of proper diet in the moulding of a football team. A coach is faced with the task not only of bringing his men to a fine fighting edge for any particular game, but also of being able to hold them at their physical best throughout an entire season. And I find that watching carefully over what my men put into their stomachs is even more important to assure a team's continued fitness than is the usual required abstinence from smoking and other undermining habits.

Mental alertness—so necessary in the Notre Dame system, where speed and the ability to think quickly are stressed more than sheer weight—is directly dependent upon a healthy body. And a healthy physique, as we all know, is one that is kept free at all times from those accumulations of residual poisons that might have been eliminated through a carefully balanced diet.

Unfortunately, very few persons seem to "have time" to study their diet. They must be educated and guided in what to eat and what not to eat. This is particularly true of those just entering upon college life; and thus we find the conscientious coach faced with many duties other than teaching embryo stars the fundamentals of the game. Early in his experience he learns that he must emphasize the principles of hygiene and balanced diet along with his instruction in football lore. And so to it, personally, that every player has real appreciation of the needs of his body to endure the strain of competition on the gridiron.

Speedy Relief for Sore Throat

This Doctor's Prescription Requires No Gargling

No longer is it necessary to gargle and choke with nasty tasting medicines to relieve sore throat. Now you can get almost instant relief with one swallow of a doctor's famous prescription. This prescription is refilled so often that the druggist who originally filled it decided to put it up under the name "Thoxine" and make it available to everyone.

The remarkable thing about Thoxine is that it relieves almost instantly, yet contains nothing harmful. It is pleasant tasting, and safe for the whole family, and is guaranteed to relieve sore throat or coughs in 15 minutes or money back. Put up ready for use in 50c, 40c, and $1.00 bottles. All Druggists—Adv.
